It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

THE work now presented to the public consists of a Grammar, and Dictionary of the language of Thibet and Bhota, more frequently written Bhotanta, but called Boutan by Europeans. This, however, is not only the language of Thibet and Boutan, but is also ascertained to be the language of little Thibet; and as these countries are a thousand miles distant from each other, it is inferred that this language is spoken throughout the whole of the region on the summit of the Himalaya mountains, usually called Chinese Tartary, and some other countries bordering thereon, all of which are mostly, if not altogether under the dominion or influence of China, and occupy the space between the English and the Russian possessions.

In a political point of view, a knowledge of the countries bordering on our own territories, and of the languages spoken in them, is of great importance, as furnishing facilities for friendly intercourse with the people who inhabit them, and opening to us all the commerical advantages which those countries afford: while, at the same time, it affords equal facilities for discovering hostile intentions when they exist, and furnishes an intelligible medium of negotiation with the people.

The mutual affinities of different languages will always be considered important by those who study human nature, as conducting us to some of the most rational conclusions respecting the relations of the different nations of the earth to each other. The labours of philologists have thrown much light on things connected with this subject which are in their nature exceedingly obscure, and by opening the way to a knowledge of the religion, the philosophy, the jurisprudence, and the popular customs of different nations have presented a wide and highly interesting field to the view of those who study the history of their species.

Most of the languages spoken on the earth may be placed in certain classes, perhaps few in number, at the head of each of which stands the language which is accounted the parent of the rest. All the Indian languages, for instance, are confessedly derived from the Sanskrita, the Arabic and its congeners from Hebrew; the Greek, the Latin, the Teutonic, the Slavonic, and perhaps the Chinese will also stand at the head of their respective classes. It is highly probable that equally strong affinities exist between many of the Tartar languages, and perhaps also, between the different languages of Africa, and those of the American Indians, which, however, yet remain to be distinguished from each other, and classically arranged, before the relations of the different classes of those languages, with those spoken in other parts of the world, can be traced out.

There is a more than ordinary importance in the languages which form the extreme limits of each class; the foreign words introduced into these bordering dialects, or the corruption of words from their original form, if accurately marked, would prove a highly interesting subject and lead to important results. In this point of view the language of Boutan must be of the first importance as it occupies a line of a thousand miles, or more, of border land between the languages of India, derived from the Sanskrita, and the languages spoken throughout Russian and independent Tartary, of which, at present, we know very little.

It is highly probable that the following Dictionary was written by some of the Roman Catholic missionaries who formerly laboured in Thibet. A copy of it was in the possession of the late Major Latter, which was copied by the late Rev. Mr. Schröter, a missionary belonging to the Church Missionary Society. Mr. Schröter was placed at Tentaliya, a military post in Poornea, and received a salary from Government. On his demise his Manuscripts were submitted to the inspection of the editor, and at his recommendation, the printing of the whole was sanctioned by Government, and the expense supported by a generous subscription.

The Dictionary was originally written in Italian, and has been partly translated into English by Mr. Marshman. Some few words, the explanation of which was very obscure, are marked with a *.—The arrangement is that of the Alphabet, as exhibited in the Grammar, with this exception that the letters of the third class, which are very few, are mixed with those of the second, and must be sought for among them. This was not observed till the printing was too far advanced to remedy it, without reprinting the whole of the words beginning with the letters of these two classes; and as the words are very few, and the inconvenience scarcely perceptible, it was not thought an object of sufficient magnitude to warrant the reprint.

The Grammar is very short, and deficient in some important points; but it is all that Mr. Schröeter had written. The editor therefore did not think himself warranted in attempting any additions; and, indeed, his knowledge of the Boutan language is too slight to admit of it. It is therefore given to the public as left by its author, those few verbal alterations excepted, which the author's imperfect knowledge of the English language rendered necessary.

OF

The Bhotan Language.

SECTION I.

Of the mode of writing, and the signs.

THE Tibetians use two kinds of characters, one, they denominate (རྟ་ཅན་) Oo-chen, which signifies headed, or having a head; e. g. ཀ་ཁ་ག་ང་, &c.; the other is called (རྟ་མེད་) Oo-medh, which signifies having no head; e. g. ག་ཀ་ཁ་ག་ང་, &c.

The characters called རྟ་ཅན་ Oo-chen are used chiefly in their sacred writings, and other printed works; but the other kind called རྟ་མེད་ Oo-medh, in correspondence or for business. There is no difference between them beside that of form, the sound of the characters is the same in both, and both Alphabets run parallel with each other. The Tibetians use various signs in their writings and books, which have no meaning in themselves, but are placed either at the beginning of a work, or page, or at the beginning and end of a sentence, or between each syllable, and at the end of a work. Those placed at the beginning of a work are most generally the following: ཨོཾ་ ཨཱ་ ཨཱཾ་ ཨཱཱ་

Those at the end of a sentence are such as follow: e. g. འཕྲོ་མེད་ཀྱི་ཕྱི་མེད་, Bhoke-dhoo, in the language of Bhotan; or འཕྲོ་མེད་ཀྱི་ཕྱི་མེད་, Gya-ghar-ko-dhoo, in the language of Bengal; and when the subject is quite finished, two perpendicular strokes are put, as ཀ. The syllables are divided by a point (.) as will be seen in the following line : ཆཞི་ཕ་རོལ་ལྷོ་དོ། chhooi-pha-rol-dhoo-do, Go beyond the river or water ; but at the end of a work every author or writer makes a mark according to his own fancy ; perhaps in this manner ཀ ུུུ ཀ ཀ ུ ཀ.

SECTION II.

Of the Consonants.

We now proceed to the Alphabet ; and as the characters called ཅ ན ལ, Oo-chen, are most employed in printed works, and are read with greater ease, it will be proper to take that form in preference to the other. The Tibetan Alphabet consists of thirty consonants, and four signs for vowels. The consonants are called ཀ་མ་ kama, and are divided into eight classes, each class having four letters, the latter excepted, which has only two. Every consonant has its inherent vowel a, and is thus capable of forming a syllable of itself ; for instance : ན nya, a fish ; ཕ kha, the mouth ; ས sa, the earth. Besides this, the Tibetians have also an artificial way of making letters, by placing different consonants either above or near each other, which they are under the necessity of doing to produce sounds not directly in their alphabetical system, and also to distinguish things and words in writing from each other, which in speaking are denoted by the same sound, as we shall see hereafter. The thirty consonants are written in the following order. In reading, pronounce the inherent vowel as a in half, craft, &c.

ཀྱེ ཀ་	ཕ་	ག་	ང་
ka	kha	gha	nga
ཆ་	ཇ་	ཁ་	གྱེ
cha	chha	jha	nya
ཏ་	ཐ་	ཌ་	གྱེ
ta	tha	dha	na
པ་	ཕ་	བ་	མ་
pa	pha	bha	ma

ཅ་	ཅ་	ཇ་	ཡ་
tsa	tsha	dsha	wa
ཤ་	ས་	འ་	ཡ་
sha	sa	a	ya
ར་	ལ་	ཤ་	ས་
ra	la	sha	sa
	ཧ་	ཨ་
	ha	a

Five of these letters, namely, the third of each of the first five classes : ག་ ཇ་ འ་ ཡ་ ཤ་ change their sound ; for the Tibetians, having no signs for g, j, d, b, and dsa, in their alphabetical system, supply their place by the following position of letters :

དགའ་	མགའ་	འགའ་	ག་	ཁ་	ཡ་
ga	ga	ga	ga	ga	ga
འཇའ་	མཇའ་	ཇ་	ཇ་
ja.	ja	ja	ja
དའ་	མའ་	འའ་	འ་	ཡ་	ཡ་
da	da	da	da	da	da
འཡའ་	ཡ་	ཡ་	ཡ་
ba	ba	ba	ba or wa
འདྲའ་	མདྲའ་	དྲ་	དྲ་
dsa	dsa	dsa	dsa

Hear the reader must be cautioned not to confound the syllables དགའ་ མགའ་ འགའ་ མཇའ་ འཇའ་ with དག་ མག་ འག་ མཇ་ འཇ་ for these consisting only of two consonants, are read dhagh, magh, bhá, má ; it must be understood, that ག་ gha, and འ་ dha become g and d, only in syllables of three consonants, or of two consonants with a vowel, e. g. དག་ ག་ gawa, joy ; དག་ ག་ gewa, virtue, piety ; མག་ ga, magh ; འག་ da, the head ; འཇ་ da, pea ; འཇ་ da, an arrow ; འཇ་ do, a kind of book : with regard to the rest no mistake can occur.

Five consonants, viz. ཀ་ ཅ་ ག་ མ་ ཏ་ are frequently mute at the beginning of a word or syllable ; ཅ་ and ག་ are mute at the end of a word or syllable ; and ཀ་ མ་ have the power of changing the preceding vowel into a diphthong. This will be more fully explained in treating of each letter separately.

SECTION III.

Of the Vowels.

Besides the vowel a, which is inherent in every consonant, four other vowels, called by the Tibetians ཡ་ ལ་ ར་ ཏ་ yon-lagh, or རྟེན་ལྟེན་ the first word signifying a member or joint ; the second singing or sounding letters, the signs and names used for them in spelling are the following :

Name.	Shape.	Power.
ཀྱ་ ཀྱ་ ki-koo	◌̆	i as in will
འདྲེན་ འདྲེན་ deng-bhoo	◌̇	e in ell
ཤལ་ ཤལ་ shabh-choo	◌̈	oo in good
ན་ ར་ na-ro	◌̉	o in robe

The first, second, and fourth of these vowels are placed above the consonant, and the third beneath it ; for instance: ཀྱ་ ki, འདྲེན་ ke, རྟེན་ koo, ར་ ko, &c.

To make these vowels long, འ་ is put underneath the consonant, and then they stand thus :

ཀ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ
a	a	i	ee	e	i	oo	oo
ཀ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ	ཀྱ
o	o	ri	ree	li	lee	am	ah

When connected with consonants, they are read in the following manner :

ཀ་	ཀྱ་	ཀྱ་	ཀྱ་	ཀྱ་	ཀྱ་
ka	ka	ki	kee	ke	ki

ཀ་	ཀྱ་	ཀོ་	ཀུ་	ཀམ་	ཀ་ or ཀ་ཀ་ལ་ཀ་
koo	koo	ko	kó	kam	ka kah

Sometimes the vowels are placed double above each other and then they are pronounced as a long vowel ; but it is more frequently the case that they denote an abbreviation of the word, so that the reader ought to make two syllables of it, as we shall see hereafter among the abbreviations. Sometimes the vowel ི is placed over a letter in an opposite direction to that above mentioned, for instance : ཀོ་ཀོ་ཀོ་, &c. but though the shape is altered the sound is the same ; it is used to express the Sungskrita ཀ.

SECTION IV.

The combination of the Vowels with the Consonants.

To show the combination of the vowels with the consonants more fully, and to facilitate thereby the reading of the language, the Tibetians make thirty sections or classes of the thirty consonants combined with the vowels, and exhibit them in the following manner :

ཀ་	ཀོ་	ཀྱ་	ཀོན་	ཀི་	ཀེ་	ཀྱོ་	ཀྱོན་
ki	ke	koo	kön	nyi	nye	nyoo	nyön
ཁ་	ཁོ་	ཁྱ་	ཁོམ་	ཁི་	ཁེ་	ཁྱོ་	ཁྱོམ་
khi	khe	khoo	khom	ti	te	too	togh
གི་	གོ་	གྱ་	གོན་	ཐི་	ཐེ་	ཐྱོ་	ཐོན་
ghi	ghe	ghoo	ghor	thi	the	thoo	thobh
ངི་	ངོ་	ངྱ་	ངོན་	དི་	དེ་	དྱོ་	དོན་
ngi	nge	ngoo	ngor	dhi	dhe	dhoo	dhon
ཅི་	ཅོ་	ཅྱ་	ཅོན་	འི་	འེ་	འྱོ་	འོན་
chi	che	choo	chol	ni	ne	noo	nor
ཆི་	ཆོ་	ཆྱ་	ཆོན་	པི་	པེ་	པྱོ་	པོན་
chhi	chhe	chhoo	chhö	pi	pe	poo	pong
ཇི་	ཇོ་	ཇྱ་	ཇོན་	ཕི་	ཕེ་	ཕྱོ་	ཕོན་
jhi	jhe	jhoo	jhön	phi	phe	phoo	phö

པི	པེ	པུ	པོན།	འི	འེ	འུ	འོན།
bhi	bhe	bhoo	bhön	i	e	oo	or
མི	མེ	མུ	མོན།	ཡི	ཡེ	ཡུ	ཡོན།
mi	me	moo	mön	yi	ye	yoo	yong
ཅི	ཅེ	ཅུ	ཅོན།	རི	རེ	རུ	རོན།
tsi	tse	tsoo	tsön	ri	re	roo	rol
ཇི	ཇེ	ཇུ	ཇོན།	ལི	ལེ	ལུ	ལོན།
tshi	tshe	tshoo	tshol	li	le	loo	logh
དི	དེ	དུ	དོན།	ཤི	ཤེ	ཤུ	ཤོན།
dshi	dshe	dshoo	dshom	shi	she	shoo	shogh
འི	འེ	འུ	འོན།	སི	སེ	སུ	སོན།
wi	we	woo	wol	si	se	soo	sol
ཞི	ཞེ	ཞུ	ཞོན།	མི	མེ	མུ	མོན།
shi	she	shoo	shön	hi	he	hoo	hor
སི	སེ	སུ	སོན།	ཡི	ཡེ	ཡུ	ཡོན།
si	se	sho	song	i	e	oo	om

In the above table the fourth or last letter of the series has always another put after it, so as to form a syllable ending in a consonant; this is done to accustom the scholar to the method of reading, to show him how to form syllables, and to teach him at the same time that the consonant at the end of a syllable loses its inherent vowel; for instance, ཀོན kon is not to be read kona, but kon; ཁོན khom is not to be read khoma, but khom;* གོན ghor is not to be read ghora, but ghor, &c.

Sometimes a consonant has two vowels, one beneath, and one above. Exam. རྩོན་ཅིན་. When this is the case it is always an abbreviation of two syllables; the Example given must be read རྩོན་ཅིན་ choo-chigh, eleven.

When a double consonant ends a syllable, both the upper and lower consonant is pronounced; for instance: སང་ཀ་ sangka, which is not read sank, but sangka; upon the same principle read སྐྱེ་ shastra, ཀུན་ཏུ་ koondai, སུ་བློ་ sambhota,† འཇིག་ཅིན་ jigten, &c.

* ག at the end of a word or syllable is always mute, as mentioned before.

† The name of the author of the book called རྩོན་ཅིན་པུ་ཡོད།.

SECTION V.

On Pronunciation.

Before we proceed to those characters which are compounded with yata and rata it is necessary to lay down a common rule for the pronunciation of each letter separately.

ཀ ka, is pronounced as k in king. This letter is mute when written over ལ la, as in ལ la.

ཁ kha, is pronounced as kh in black-horse.

ཀ gha, as gh in log-house. This letter is the first of those, which lose their power and change their sound : as particularized below. See also page 3.

1. ཀ gha having ར dha, ལ a, or ར ma, prefixed, or ར ra, ལ la, or ར sa placed over it, is pronounced as g in give.

2. ཀ gha without a vowel either above or underneath it, at the beginning of a syllable consisting of three or more consonants, is mute, when prefixed to the following eleven letters, ར ཀ ར ར ར ར ར ར ར ར ར ར. Hence read ར cha, ར nya, ར ta, ར dadh, ར na, ར tsa, ར sha, ར sa, ར ya, ར sha, ར sa.

3. ཀ gha, is mute over ལ la, as in ལ la.

4. If a word or syllable terminate in ཀ gha, it is pronounced, but if in ར it is mute, these two letters being written for the sign (:) called in the Sanskrit language visarga. Hence read ར seghma, a breach, but ར sooh, shape, a body.

ཀ gna, a nasal sound.

ཅ་ cha, is sounded as ch in church:

ཅ་ chha, has the sound of chh in coach-house.

ཇ་ jha, is j aspirated. This is the second letter which loses its power, it is however never mute. When འ་ a, or མ་ ma, are prefixed, or ར་ ra, or ལ་ la, placed on the head of it, it is pronounced as j in judge. See also page 3.

ག་ nya, a nasal sound.

ཏ་ ta, is the dental t.

ཐ་ tha, the last letter, sensibly aspirated.

ཌ་ dha, the dental d aspirated. This letter is the third that changes its sound, and loses its power, as particularised below. See also page 3.

1. ཌ་ dha having བ་ bha, མ་ ma, or འ་ a, prefixed, or ར་ ra, ལ་ la, or ས་ sa, placed on the top of it, becomes the unaspirated d. Hence read the following : འཌ་ da, བཌ་ da, མཌ་ da, ཌ་ da, རཌ་ da, ལཌ་ da.

2. ཌ་ dha, without a vowel either above or underneath it, at the beginning of a syllable consisting of three or more consonants, is mute when prefixed to the following six letters ; ཁ་ ག་ ང་ ཙ་ ཟ་ མ་. Hence read : ཀཌ་ ka, ཁཌ་ ga, ངཌ་ nga, ཙཌ་ pa, ཟཌ་ ba, མཌ་ ma.

3. ཌ་ dha at the end of a syllable has the power of changing the preceding vowels, namely, the inherent vowel a into â, as pronounced in the word mare ; ར་ oo into the French u or German ü, and ལ་ o, into the French eu or German ö.* Exam. རཌ་ is not read tshadh as it regularly would be, but tshâ or tshâdh ; རཌ་ཡ་ is not read chhoodh-pa, but chhü-pa or chhüdh-pa ; ལཌ་ is not read shodh, but shö or shödh.

* Those unacquainted with the exact sound of these foreign diphthongs had better read the oo and unaltered.

ཀ་ na, is pronounced like the English n. At the end of a word or syllable it has the same effect as the preceding ར་ dha; viz. it occasions the preceding vowels to be changed into diphthongs, namely, ུ into the French u or German ü, ི into the French eu or German ö, and the inherent vowel into ཤ, pronounced like a in mare. It never changes its sound, and is never mute. Exam. རྩ་ is not read phoon as it regularly would be, but as phün; རྩ་ is not read pon but pön; རྩ་ is not read ngan but ngán.

པ་ pa, has the sound of the English p.

ཕ་ pha, is pronounced as p with an aspiration, sensibly, though closely expressed as one letter only.

བ་ bha, is b with an aspiration. This letter is the fourth which changes its sound and loses its power.

1. བ་ bha having ལ་ prefixed or ར་ ra, ལ་ la, ས་ sa, placed over it, loses its proper sound and is pronounced as the English b.

2. བ་ bha, without a vowel either above or underneath it, at the beginning of a word or syllable consisting of three or more letters, is mute when prefixed to the following ten letters: ཀ་ ཁ་ ར་ ལ་ ཤ་ ས་ ཉ་ ཏ་ ཐ་ ད་. Exam. བཀའ་ ka, བཀའ་ ལ་ ga, བཀའ་ ha, བཀའ་ ta, བཀའ་ da, བཀའ་ tsa, བཀའ་ sha, བཀའ་ sa, བཀའ་ sha, བཀའ་ sa.

3. བ་ bha, is never mute at the end of a syllable or word, but it is mute when it stands above another letter, or is the first member of a compound letter: e. g. སྤོ་ lo, the mind; སྤོ་ལ་ lama, a priest, a spiritual teacher.

4. བ་ bha, is often written for བ་ wa, especially when it is the termination of the infinitive, and then it is pronounced as w; for instance, ལྟོག་པ་ da-wa, to go; it is also pronounced wa after the letters ར་ ལ་ ཤ་ ས་.

5. བ་ bha, with ར་ dha prefixed, becomes wa, as in རབ་ wang, a king, or ru- ler. It is also used in the same manner as ལ and becomes mute as in རྩ་ ལོ, a head; རྩལ་ ལོ, poor, low, mean. In this case it serves only as a head to the vowel.

མ་ ma, is sounded as the English m.

1. མ་ ma, without a vowel above or beneath it, at the beginning of a syllable consisting of three or more letters, is mute when prefixed to the following eleven letters : ཁ་ ག་ ང་ ཅ་ ཆ་ ཇ་ ཉ་ ཐ་ ད་ ཚ་ ཛ་. Exam. མཁལ་ kha, མགལ་ ga, མདལ་ nga, མཅལ་ chha, མཆལ་ ja, མཉལ་ nya, མཐལ་ tha, མདལ་ da, མནལ་ na, མཚལ་ tsha, མཛལ་ dsa.

2. When prefixed to ག་ gha, ང་ dha, ཆ་ jha, ཛ་ dsha, it causes them to become unaspirated.

3. It is represented by a small round circle •, written over the letter, for instance in མོ་ kom, dry; མུ་ nam, all; མུ་ཙམ་ཅེ་ tham-che, all; or མུ་ཙམ་ཅེ་ tham-che, all; these words would otherwise be written མོམ་ kom, མུམ་ nam, མུམ་ཙམ་ཅེ་ tham-che.

ཙ་ tsa, a sound which cannot be expressed in the English tongue by a single letter.

ཙ་ tsha, the former aspirated.

ཙ་ dsha, a sound not existing in the English tongue. When ལ་ a, or མ་ ma, is prefixed, or ར་ ra, or ལ་ la, placed over this letter, it loses its aspiration and becomes dsa.

ཡ་ wa, has the sound of the English w.

ཤ་ sha, ས་ sa, have a hollow sound strongly pronounced in the throat.

ས་ sa, placed over ལ་ la, is pronounced ལ་ da, as in ལ་པ་ dawa, the moon.

ལ་ a, has a deep guttural sound like ཤ་ and ས་.

1. ལ་ prefixed to ག་ gha, ར་ dha, ལ་ jha, ལ་ dsha, occasions them to become unaspirated.

2. This letter without a vowel either above or beneath it, at the beginning of a syllable consisting of three or more letters, is mute when prefixed to the following ten letters : ལ་ ག་ ར་ ལ་ ར་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་. Exam. ལ་ལ་ kha, ལ་ལ་ ga, ལ་ལ་ chha, ལ་ལ་ ja, ལ་ལ་ tha, ལ་ལ་ da, ལ་ལ་ pha, ལ་ལ་ ba, ལ་ལ་ tsha, ལ་ལ་ dsa.

ལ་ ya, has the sound of the English y in yoke. This letter is often compounded with a preceding consonant and its powers when thus compounded will be treated of in the next Section.

ར་ has the sound of the English r. It is always mute when placed over the following twelve letters : ལ་ ག་ ར་ ལ་ ར་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་. Exam. ལ་ ka, ལ་ ga, ལ་ nga, ལ་ ja, ལ་ nya, ལ་ ta, ལ་ da, ལ་ na, ལ་ ba, ལ་ ma, ལ་ tsa, ལ་ dsa.

ལ་ la, has the power of the English l. It is always mute at the top of the following letters : ལ་ ག་ ར་ ལ་ ར་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་. Exam. ལ་ ka, ལ་ ga, ལ་ nga, ལ་ cha, ལ་ ja, ལ་ ta, ལ་ da, ལ་ pa, ལ་ ba, or wa.

ལ་ la, written at the foot of ར་, becomes da; hence read ལ་ལ་ dawa, the moon; when placed over ལ་ it is written and pronounced ལ་ lha.

ལ་ sha, has the sound of the English sh.

ལ་ sa, is pronounced like s in sin. It is always mute when written at the top of the following twelve letters : ལ་ ག་ ར་ ལ་ ར་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་ ལ་. Exam. ལ་ ka, ལ་ ga, ལ་ nga, ལ་ nya, ལ་ ta, ལ་ da, ལ་ na, ལ་ pa, ལ་ ba, ལ་ ma, ལ་ tsa, ལ་ la.

ལ་ sa, like ར་ dha, and ལ་ na, occasions the change of the preceding vowels into diphthongs, making ལ་ oo take the sound of the French u or German ü, and ལ་ o, that of the French eu or German ö; and the inherent vowel a that of a in mare; the ལ་ is then always mute. Exam. ལ་ is not pronounced dhoo, but dhu; ཅ་ is not pronounced chho, but chhö; ས་ is not pronounced sa, but sá.

ཁ ha, has the power of h in the English word horse.

ཨ a, as a in father.

SECTION VI.

Of the signs Yata and Rata.

The letters ཁ་ and ར་ ra, in a different form, are frequently joined with a preceding consonant to form compound letters, and are placed at the foot of the other consonant; the first is called ཁ་ཡ་ Yata, and has this form ཡ; the other is called ར་ལ་ Rata, and is written thus ལ. They both occasion the consonants under which they are placed to alter their original sound, and either give them an additional power, or change them altogether.

The sign ཡ yata is a symbol to represent the letter ཁ ya, and has the same power. Yata may be annexed to the following eight letters: ཀ ka, ཁ kha, ཅ gha, ཇ pa, ཉ pha, ཏ bha, ཨ ma, ར ra. Exam. ཇ kya, ཉ kh'ya, ཏ gh'ya, ཇ cha, ཉ chya, ཏ jhya, ཨ nya, ར ya.

ཇ kya, is sometimes though seldom pronounced cha as the English ch in church: the mute letters ར ra, ཁ sa may be placed over it, when it is written thus: ཇྲ kya, ཇླ kya.

ཉ khya is sometimes pronounced ཅ chha, as in the pronoun ཉམ་ khyo, you, which may be read khyo and chho.

ཏ ghya, is sometimes pronounced jha. What has been said in the rules (See page 7.) concerning the letter ཅ gha, is applicable here also, viz. ཏ gh'ya with ར dha, ཇ a, ཨ ma, prefixed, or ར ra, ཏ la, ཁ sa, placed over it, becomes gya. Exam. རཏ gya, ཨཏ gya, ཇཏ gya, ཇྲ gya, ཏྲ gya, ཇླ gya.

ཅ་ cha, and ཅ་ chha are not altered in sound by yata but have the same power with ཅ་ cha, ཅ་ chha. When the mute letter ཁ་ is placed over them, they are written thus, ཅ་ cha, ཅ་ chha.

ཅ་ jha, has the same sound as ཅ་ jha. What has been said (page 9.) relating to the letter ཅ་ bha, is partly applicable here also.

1. If ཅ་ be prefixed to, or the mute letter ཁ་ be placed over this letter, it loses its aspiration and is pronounced as the English j in judge. Exam. ཅ་ ja, ཅ་ ja.

2. ཅ་ jha, becomes ཅ་ ya, when ཅ་ dha, is prefixed to it, and is then pronounced as the letter ཡ་ ya, or the English y in yóu. Exam. ཅ་ ying, height; ཅ་ yang-pa, to float; ཅ་ ye-wa, to open.

These compound letters admit all the vowels to be placed above and beneath them, in the same manner as the simple ones. The following syllables will serve as a specimen.

ཅི་	ཅེ་	ཅུ་	ཅོ་	ཅཱ་	ཅཱ་	ཅོམ་	ཅུམ་
kyi	kye	kyoo	kyo	kyen	kye	kyom	khyüm

The sign ৳ Rata is the representative symbol of ৳ ra, and is placed at the foot of the consonant. It is used to give to some consonants an additional sound, and to change others entirely. The letters under which the sign Rata may be written are the following fourteen :

ক'	খ'	গ'	ঙ'	চ'	ছ'	জ'
ka	kha	gha	ta	tha	dha	na
প'	ফ'	ব'	ম'	শ'	স'	হ'
pa	pha	bha	ma	sha	sa	ha

Which, Rata being subjoined to them, have the following appearance and sounds:

ত'	ত্খ'	ত্গ'	ত্ঙ'	ত্চ'	ত্ছ'	ত্জ'
ta	tha	dha	ta	tha	dha	nra
প'	প্খ'	প্গ'	প্ঙ'	প্চ'	প্ছ'	প্জ'
ta	tha	dha	mra	shra	sra	hra

Observe the following remarks :

ত' ত্খ' ত্গ' sound almost like the English t; they agree with the Bengalee ট, or Naguree ঢ.

ত্খ' ত্গ' ত্ঙ' sound almost like the English t aspirated; they agree with the Bengalee ঠ or Naguree ড.

ত্গ' ত্ঙ' ত্জ' sound almost like the English d aspirated; they agree with the Bengalee ঢ or Naguree ঢ. But ত্খ' dha loses its aspiration when the mute letters ক dha, গ a, ম ma, are prefixed to it, or ৳ be placed over it. Exam. ৳ত্খ' da, ৳ত্গ' da, ৳ত্ঙ' da. In the same manner ত্খ' and ত্গ' become unaspirated, when any of the mute letters are prefixed to, or placed on the top of them.

These compound letters admit all the vowels like simple letters, as may be seen from reading the following syllables:

ཐི་	ཐེ་	ཐུ་	ཐོ་	ཐེམ་	ཐུལ་	ཐེན་	ཐོལ་
ti	te	too	to	tim	tu	ten	tol

ཐི་	ཐེ་	ཐུ་	ཐོ་	ཐིམ་	ཐུལ་	ཐོན་	ཐོལ་
hri	hre	hroo	hro	hrim	hü	hren	hrol

The letter ཐ་ in the form of a triangle is also placed at the foot of letters ; it has the sound of w. Exam. ཐི དཔལ་ ye-daw.

SECTION VII.

The Tibetians have at the end of their Alphabet a series of letters which they use to write Sanskrit words, they are the following :

ཏ་	ཐ་	ད་	ཌ་	པ་	ཤ་	ག་	མ་	བ་	ཏྟ་	ཀྟ་
ta	tha	dha	da	na	sha	gha	dha	bha	gna	khya

Observations.

ཏ་ ta, the English t ; the Bengalee ট.

ཐ་ tha, the English t, aspirated ; the Bengalee ঠ.

ཌ་ dha, as the English d ; the Bengalee ড.

ད་ dha, as the English d, aspirated ; the Bengalee ঢ.

པ་ na, as the English n, or Bengalee ন.

ཤ་ sha, is also pronounced kha ; the Bengalee খ.

ག་ gha, as the English g, in give ; or Bengalee গ.

མ་ dha, the dental d, aspirated ; the Bengalee ধ.

བ་ bha, as the English b, aspirated ; the Bengalee ভ.

ཏྟ་ gniya, a nasal sound, corresponding with the Bengalee ঙ.

ཀྟ་ khya, corresponding with the Bengalee ক.

The subsequent is a table which exhibits all the superscribed mute letters, mentioned in the preceding rules.

ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་	ལ་
la	la	la	da	la	la	ka	ga	nga	cha

ཇ་	ཏ་	ཉ་	པ་	འ་	ཇ་	ཏ་	ཉ་	མ་	ལ་
ja	ta	da	pa	ba or wa	da	ta	da	mra	nra
ལ་	ཀ་	ཁ་	ང་	ལ་	ཀ་	ཁ་	ལ་	ཆ་	ཇ་
lha	ka	ga	nga	nya	k'ya	g'ya	cha	ch'ha	ja
ཏ་	ཌ་	ཎ་	པ་	ཕ་	ཏ་	ཌ་	ཎ་
ta	da	na	pa	p'ha	nya	gya	g'ya
མ་	མ་	མ་	མ་	མ་
ba	ma	tsa	dsa	ta

Though one sound may be expressed in so many different ways, yet in writing and reading, the greatest attention ought to be paid to them, as the meaning of the thing expressed depends on the mute letter which is used, for instance, ལ་ nga, signifies five, but ལ་ nga, signifies, a drum.

SECTION VIII.

Having found the translating the English Alphabet into Tibetan, and placing all the letters and syllables of one sound in one row, to be useful in studying the alphabet, I will here do the same to assist the learner to read Tibetan without having occasion to consult the rules, which have been laid down.

PART II.

Of the Parts of Speech.

There are eight Parts of Speech : Noun Substantive, Adjective, Pronoun, Verb, Adverb, Preposition, Conjunction, and Interjection.

The Particle ཁི་ answers to the article 'the' for instance, མིང་ལུ་ཁི་ the throat ; ཐུང་གཞི་ཁི་ the business, work.

SECTION I.

Of the Noun Substantive.

A word which can be declined through different numbers and cases, is called a Noun ; of which we have to observe,

1st. The Gender, or distinction of sex, whether Masculine, Feminine, or Neuter.

2d. The Number, i. e. the Singular or Plural.

3d. The Case, or the different terminations or endings of a noun; these are :

The Nominative ; the Genitive ; the Dative ; the Accusative ; the Vocative, and the Ablative.

4th. The Declension which is produced by the various Cases and Numbers.

Of the Gender.

Masculine Nouns end in ལྔ་ ; Feminine Nouns in ལྔོ་ ; for instance, མཉམ་ལྔྔ་ a host. མཉམ་ལྔོ་ an hostess.

In masculine and feminine nouns, the different cases are formed by affixing the following terminations :

Genitive.	ཁྱི་མི་ཁྱི་འི་ཡི་	Ablative.	ནས་ལས་
Dative.	ལ་	Instrumental.	རྩ་
Accusative.	ལ་	Locative.	རྩ་ལས་ཐ་ཐ་ན་རྩ་

Remarks on the Sign of the Genitive.

If the word end in ར་ལ་ས་ the possessive case must be formed by ཁྱི; Exam. ཁྱི་འི་, your, ཁྱི་ཁྱི་, of a side, ལས་ལས་ཁྱི་, of the right.

If the word terminate in ས་ད་ the genitive or possessive case must end in མི་; Exam. ལར་ས་མི་, mine; ས་ད་མི་, of the foot.

If the word terminate in a vowel the genitive is to be expressed by འི་ or ཡི་; Exam. མའི་, of a mother; སའི་, of earth; རྩའི་, of water; རྩའི་, of a day.

If the word terminate in ན་མ་ར་ལ་, the possessive or genitive case must be expressed by ཁྱི་; Exam. རྩམ་ཁྱི་, of a cause; སར་ཁྱི་, of the east; ལས་མ་ཁྱི་, of a word; རྩལ་ཁྱི་, of riches, grandeur, or excellency.

The same rules are applicable to the instrumental, རྩས་ མིས་ རྩས་ རྩ་, with the knife; here is རྩ་ e, the sign of the instrumental.

Remarks on the Sign of the Locative.

If the word terminate in ས་ རྩ་, the locative case must be expressed by རྩ་; Exam. རྩས་ རྩ་, རྩས་ རྩ་ རྩ་ རྩ་

If the word terminate in ད་ རྩ་ ན་ མ་ རྩ་ ལ་ the locative case must be expressed by རྩ་; Exam. རྩུང་ལ་ རྩ་ལ་ རྩ་ རྩ་, in a vessel; རྩུང་ རྩ་ལ་ རྩ་ རྩ་, in haste.

ས་ is sometimes employed as the termination of the nominative plural.

Examples.

Singular.	Plural.
ཁྱི་ལ་, lungs.	ཁྱི་ལས་, lungs.
ཁྱི་མ་, bowels.	ཁྱི་མས་, bowels.

Observing these rules there is but one declension of nouns ; nor except as above mentioned, is there any termination to express the plural number, but the plural is formed by adding the adjectives နမလ်, တမလ်, all, to the singular, placing the signs of the cases after the adjectives, as will appear from the following example of a declined Noun.

Example.

Singular.		Plural.
N.	မိမ , a house.	မိမနမလ် , or တမလ် , houses.
G.	မိမ , of a house.	မိမနမလ် , of houses.
D.	မိမ , to a house.	မိမနမလ် , to houses.
Acc.	မိမ , a house.	မိမနမလ် , houses.
Abl.	မိမနလ် or လ် , from a house.	မိမနမလ်နလ် , or လ် , from houses.
Inst.	မိမ or မိမ , with or by a house.	မိမနမလ် , with or by houses.
Loc.	မိမ or န or လ် , in a house.	မိမနမလ် , in houses.

Singular.		Plural.
N.	မ , a mother.	မတမလ် , mothers.
G.	မ , a mother's.	မတမလ် , mothers'.
D.	မ , to a mother.	မတမလ် , to mothers.
Acc.	မ , a mother.	မတမလ် , mothers.
Abl.	မနလ် or လ် , from a mother.	မတမလ်နလ် or လ် , from mothers.
Inst.	မ , by a mother.	မတမလ် , with or by mothers.
Loc.	မ , in a mother.	မတမလ် , or န or လ် , in mothers.

The word မိမ signifying many, a multitude, may also be employed to form the plural number ;

Example.

Singular.		Plural.
N.	မိမ , a father.	မိမမိမ , fathers.
G.	မိမ , a father's.	မိမမိမ , fathers'.
D.	မိမ , to a father.	မိမမိမ , to fathers.
Acc.	မိမ , a father.	မိမမိမ , fathers.
